

Give a Gift That Lasts All Year!

Jata Lhamo, a girl from Litang, hopes to continue her studies in high school

Tibetan girls from poor families in remote villages need grants to help them attend high school, grades 10-12. These girls were handpicked for their talent and promise by the local Women's Federation and have completed grades 1-9 in their home counties. Their families cannot afford the next step, which is to enroll them at high school or vocational school in a town many days travel from home. They need your help.

BECOME A SPONSOR AND KEEP THEIR DREAMS ALIVE

Your dollar goes a long way in Kham, a region on the eastern Tibetan plateau. For about a dollar a day, you can provide tuition, books, clothing, bedding, room and board. Help a girl on her road to success and you help an entire culture stay alive. "A child without education is like a bird without wings."
(Tibetan proverb)
